SEEK SITE HERE FOR INSTITUTION

Would Get Place in Adams County to Put up Health Resort for Colored People. Project of Mercy Hospital, Philadelphia.

It is proposed to transfer the entire social service work of Mercy Hospital in Philadelphia to rural Pennsylvania and a farm site for the proposed plant is now being sought in Adams County by the Trustees. It will be entirely for the treatment of negroes. When a suitable place shall have been secured buildings will be erected for the proper housing of convalescents, orphans, and negro deficients who require changed environment, vocational training and hospital treatment along with general education.

It has been proved impractical to restore the chronic sick to health in a city hospital. The facilities for outdoor treatment, occupation and exercises are too restricted to produce desired results and social conditions make all schemes for home treatment largely ineffective.

General hospitals prefer not to treat colored patients. The number of colored physicians and nurses has multiplied in recent years until it is now possible not only to equip a hospital of metropolitan proportions with the most modern appliances for all departments of medical and surgical work but it is also entirely practical to people it entirely with colored physicians, pharmacists and nurses all of whom possess the peculiar knowledge essential to the proper handling of colored patients.

The Mercy Hospital meets all the demands made upon it for medical and surgical treatment but it is almost helpless in the face of an ever growing demand for practical social service.

The most intimate study of the negro and his problems has convinced the twenty four colored physicians on the staff of Mercy Hospital that until colored people can be taught personal hygiene, general sanitation and the common rudiments of health preservation all social service in behalf of the colored race is futile. They are agreed that the large cities not only imperil the lives of the sick colored person but the morals of the weak.
The colored orphan is foredoomed to a life of inefficiency if not to a life of immorality for the want of vocational training and proper environment while acquiring such instruction.

The management of Mercy Hospital which is entirely a philanthropic institution, proposes to establish a large plant in rural Pennsylvania which will not only house the colored orphan but care for the colored adult during the period of convalescence and to make both self supporting and self respecting through vocational training.

A committee including Dr. A. B.
Jackson, Dr. E. T. Hinson, and Dr.
H. M. Minton has been named to work out a detailed plan for submission at the next meeting of the Board of Trustees.

A large, well-watered farm including some woodland is desired for the housing of this comprehensive philanthropy looking to the permanent betterment of the colored race and the solution of the negro problem.

WEEK'S WEATHER

Generally Fair Week is Weather
Forecast Announced.

Indications for the week, the weather bureau reports, are that in the middle Atlantic and New England states, the weather will be generally fair, with seasonal temperatures during the next several days over virtually all parts of the country.

The next disturbance of importance to cross the country will appear in the far west Monday or Tuesday and move eastward over the middle west Wednesday or Thursday and the eastern states about Friday. This disturbance will be attended by local showers and thunder storms, and be followed by considerably cooler weather.

CATHOLIC SCHOOL OPENS FOR TERM

Local Parochial Schools Begin Work with Large Attendance and New Course Offered. Increase in Primary School.

With a highly encouraging attendance the local parochial schools opened this morning for the work of the next nine months. Included in the pupils were twenty four belonging to the primary grade, the largest number this room has had for many years and an enrollment which will require the installation of more desks to accommodate the little boys and girls.

An addition to the curriculum this year will be a new commercial course, including work in commercial law, book-keeping, typewriting and other allied branches. Four are in the graduating classes and the remainder are in the other grades. The same Sisters who conducted the work last year will again be in charge of the schools this term.

Preceding the opening of the schools this morning all attended High Mass in St. Francis Xavier church. At the close of the Mass the children joined in the service singing
"Salutaris", "Tantum Ergo" and
"Laudate Dominum". They marched to Xavier Hall and there Rev. Fr. Boyle assembled them and gave the address which marked the formal opening of their school year.

Fr. Boyle urged upon them earnest study from the first day of school, so that there might be no necessity for "cramming" at the end of the term, giving only a superficial knowledge of the subject and a most unsatisfactory result to nine months spent under the teachers. He urged study at home and regular attendance throughout and closed by giving all his blessing.

The pupils were assigned to their desks, the lessons named for the first active day of school and the promotions made, after which adjournment was taken for the day, the first real school session with recitations and study hours being announced for Tuesday.

In addition to the enrollment of this morning there will be six or seven others who are out of town for the day.

PLAN TO IMPORT THEIR SCENERY

Poli Players of Baltimore will Likely Furnish Some of the Scenery for Production by Local Amateurs. Grand Opera Soprano.

Making arrangements to secure scenery, costumes, and some of the cast from Baltimore, the alumni of the Gettysburg High School are going ahead with their preparations for the production of "Pinafore" on September 24 and 25 with a vim that promises well for the success of their efforts.

The ship scene will be carried out with scenery secured from the Poli Players, a well known organization of semi-professional actors in the Monumental City. Allen B. Plank, who has shown an exceptional interest in the work of the schools and unusual ability in the matter of stage arrangements, has been secured to direct the setting of the scenery for the opera and that part of the affair will be well taken care of.

Attractive costumes will be secured from A. T. Jones' Sons, the well known Baltimore costume people, who have supplied outfits for many of the other home talent productions here.

Miss Agnes Whelan, of Washington, who has been secured to take the part of "Jesephine" has been given an engagement with the Aborn Grand Opera Company for this coming season and the local High School graduates consider themselves very fortunate in having secured her promise to be here. A Baltimore tenor will sing the part of Ralph Rockstraw. Local people taking leading parts are J.
Calvin Hartman, G. Edgar Miller Jr.,
John Sachs, Jack Phillips, Roy E.
Zinn, Miss Pauline Rudisill, Mrs. R.
E. Zinn.

The chorus is being carefully trained and all things point to a highly successful entertainment.

WON FROM RED LION

Locals Take Well Played Game from York Countians.

Before a good crowd Gettysburg trounced Red Lion Saturday afternoon in a well played game 4 to 3.
Timely hitting and good base running featured the work of the locals and Red Lion put up a fast article of ball.
Both teams were held runless until the fourth. Becker, of Red Lion, knocked a fly to center that should have been an out but McDonnell took it on the bounce. Becker was forced out at second by Wallick. Hoar passed Smith and Haines singled between second and first, scoring Wallick. Mc-Curdy singled and Smith scored, and Haines scored on Stewart's single.

In Gettysburg's half Essick got first on an error, Plank was hit by a pitched ball and both scored on Starry's hit which was thrown wild at home. In the next inning, with one out, Bream knocked a long three bagger but was out at home when he tried to score on Oyler's infield grounder. Oyler stole second and third but died there.

The game was won in the eighth.
Bream rapped out a two base hit.
Oyler was safe on a bunt, and Essick was out at first, Bream scoring, and Oyler tallied on Plank's fly to center.

Allentown will be played here Wednesday and an effort is being made to book either Ephrata or Red Lion for Saturday. It has been suggested that the proceeds from the Saturday game be devoted to the players who served without salary during the season. The game scheduled with Lancaster Tri-State for Thursday has been cancelled by the Lancaster management.

AUTO ACCIDENT CHAPTER SUNDAY

W. S. Adams Narrowly Escapes Death when Train Strikes his Machine. Auto Runs into Guard Ball on Avenue.

Gettysburg and the county witnessed several accidents on Sunday in which local residents and tourists were injured. In every instance the automobile figured.

W. S. Adams, a well known resident of Mount Tabor, sustained severe cuts and bruises and narrowly escaped death when his automobile was struck by the Sunday morning passenger train on the Reading near Starners. Mr. Adams did not hear the approaching train until he had driven his Ford car onto the tracks. For fully 150 yards the machine was dragged along the ties before it was turned over pinning Mr. Adams beneath it.

He was able to get out unassisted and sustained no injuries other than cuts on his face and hands, and bruises about the body. The machine was reduced to splinters. No one was with Mr. Adams at the time the accident occurred.

Miss Grace Breechbill, of Marion,
Franklin County, received severe cuts about the face when she was thrown against the windshield of an automobile owned and driven by Guy Hartman, of Kauffman's Station. The accident occurred on Oak Ridge and was caused by a wheel striking one of the large iron guard balls. The sudden stopping of the car threw Miss Breechbill against the windshield.
The automobile was slightly damaged.

The automobile of Lewis E. Kirssin, driven by Cleveland Hartlaub and occupied by Mr. Kirssin and members of his family ran into a bicycle ridden by Harry Peterson, a local Greek, at the foot of Baltimore Hill Sunday evening. Peterson was badly cut and bruised about his back and shoulder.

MADE ADDRESSES

Local Men Took Part in County Meeting at Lafayette Park.

Gettysburg figured prominently in the picnic held at Lafayette Park near East Berlin Saturday by the temperance and suffrage advocates of the county. Rev. F. E. Taylor and Wm. Arch McClean were among those who made addresses and Miss Edith Sheely won the silver medal contest.

Mr. McClean outlined the legal status of women and Mr. Taylor spoke on temperance and suffrage.
The W. C. T. U. has for some years been quietly advocating suffrage and now seems lost to sight as a society in the rapid development of that one department of women's work. Judge Kuhn, owner of the park, was also among the speakers and invited the ladies to hold their meetings there in the future, saying that if the railroad were given up a trolley line would soon take its place.

The gathering was well attended by people from Gettysburg, Cashtown, New Oxford, Abbottstown, and other places in the county.

SQUIRE ENTERTAINS

Saturday was a Gala Day at Hammers Park.

Saturday all roads led to Hammers Park. Forty buggies, wagons and automobiles were on the ground, and 225 people. Both park and hall were used. About 75 ladies occupied the hall in a song service. William H.
Tipton photographed the crowd. Only one accident took place. Raymond, young son of William Rebert, in running over the croquet ground tripped on a wicket and dislocated his shoulder.
William Weikert took the boy in his automobile to Doctor Elderdice at McKnightstown who set the shoulder.

ENCIRGLING MOVE CHECKED BY ALLIES

Germans Repulsed Near Paris.

LEFT FLANK TURNED

Reinforcements Batter Rear of Teutons in Belgium.

DRIVEN FROM TERMONDE

Menace Line of Communications of War Machine.

London, Sept. 7.—A dispatch to Reuters Telegram company from Berlin by way of Amsterdam says the Germans are attacking the forts at Nancy and that Emperor William and the German general staff are present at that place.

German Right Wing Defeated. Paris, Sept. 7.—The right wing of the Kaiser's war machine has been defeated by the French and British forces, an official report says. This engagement took place east of Paris, and the Germans' encircling movement started two days ago has been checked. The war office statement says:

"The advance lines of the allies for the defense of Paris came in contact Saturday with the right wing of the Germans, who appeared in a covering movement in strong force on our right and advancing toward the southeast. A short engagement resulted to the advantage of the allies.

"First—The allied armies have again come into contact on our left wing under good conditions, with the right wing of the enemy on the banks of Grand Morin.

"Second—Fighting continues on the center and right in Lorraine and the Vosges. The situation remains unchanged.

"Third—Around Paris the engagement began Saturday between the allied army and the flank of the advance guard of the German right has extended. We have advanced to the river Ourcq without great resistance.

"The situation of the allied armies appears good as a whole.

"Fourth—Maubeuge continues its heroic resistance."

Reinforcements Beat Germans.

To the north across the French frontier in Belgium the invading forces of Germans have also suffered severely in an engagement and the Teutons have been forced to evacuate several towns in that section and also have been driven from Termonde. This check was delivered by the reinforcements that have been rushed to the aid of the allies.

Russians, East Indians and British, the latter comprising the fifth expeditionary force, inflicted heavy losses during the engagement, and more than 5000 German dead were left on the field after the engagement.

A dispatch from Boulogne says that General Joffre has succeeded in turning the German lines and that Sir John French had gotten around on the left of the German army. The German forces at Lille left there hurriedly on Saturday.

After the turning movement of the allies the French army under General Joffre has taken an advantageous position and it is assumed that the engagement announced by the war office opens a great battle that may decide the struggle in France.

Urge Berlin to Send Troops.

The amazing speed with which the Germans had pushed their flanking columns through France increased as the need of striking a quick and decisive blow becomes more apparent. Dispatches from Amsterdam declare that the German officials are taking a serious view of the situation in both the western and eastern theaters of war. A wireless message sent from Brussels and intercepted at Amsterdam demands that reinforcements be sent to the German armies in France. Another message, this one coming from Berlin, urgently recalls the first line troops for use on the eastern frontier, where the Russian sweeping movement continues.

In the meantime Maubeuge, the French stronghold, 125 miles north east of Paris, is being battered under a terrific bombardment by the guns of General Von Beulow's army.

British Rush Fifth Army. England has sent her fifth army across the channel to reinforce the French. The conscripts conceal both its strength and destination.

In the meantime the situation in Belgium has been made increasingly difficult for the invaders by the action of the Belgians in opening the dykes and cutting off the advance of a German force between Antwerp and the coast. This movement threatened to cut communication with England, but

GENERAL JOFFRE.
Transfer of Paris Government
Part of His Plans.

The French embassy at Washington announced that the moving of the capital of France from Paris to Bordeaux was taken at the suggestion of General Joffre, commander-in-chief of the French forces. Further it was stated that everything has been made ready for a prolonged siege of Paris, although it is not regarded as by any means certain that there will be a siege.

the driving back of the Germans, with a loss of 5000 killed and wounded, has temporarily, at least, prevented this danger.

The conviction grows steadily in England that the war will be a long one, in which the basic resources of the belligerents will prove to be a decisive factor and the command of the sea, with its protection to commerce, will be vitally necessary to Great Britain.

The police surprised three individuals who were exchanging illuminated signals from the banks of the Seine to the heights of Bellevue (an eastern quarter of Paris). They found in a vacant house in Bellevue a man who was formerly an interpreter in a Paris hotel. In his pocket was an order for safe conduct issued to him by the general staff in Belgium. The two other spies who were operating with this man escaped.

BRITAIN LOSES 15,000 IN BATTLES

Fights Last Week Not Trials of Strength.

London, Sept. 7.—A dispatch to the Times sent from Boulogne says that the mayor of that city is reported to have received a telegram stating that General Joffre had succeeded in turning the German lines, and that Sir John French had gotten around on the left of the German army. The German troops at Lille left there hurriedly on Saturday.

It is officially announced that the British casualties during the war thus far have been 15,000.

The official statement says that the British successfully guarded the left flank of the whole line of the French army until the seventh and fifth armies of the French came into operation on the British left and right. The French reinforcements greatly relieved the strain and pressure on the allies' left wing.

It is stated that there has been no new main trial of strength during the past week. The battles have been of strategic withdrawal and contraction. The war so far has given most promising opportunities of achieving substantial successes, but more men must be had in order to operate on a much greater scale.

German Ships Sunk in Naval Fight.

Tokio, Sept. 7.—Britain has again triumphed on the sea, according to information which reached this city. In an engagement in Asiatic waters, the exact position of which was not given, the British cruiser Welland engaged and destroyed several German torpedo boats.

North Sea Mine Destroys Liner.

London, Sept. 7.—The Wilson liner Runo, with 600 passengers on board, struck a mine in the North Sea and was sunk. All of the crew and passengers with the exception of about twenty Russian refugees were saved.

Kaiser Out of Peace Prize Race.

London, Sept. 7.—A dispatch to the Express from Stockholm says that the name of the German emperor has been stricken from the list of nominees for the next Nobel peace prize.

BENEDICT XV CROWNED POPE

The Ceremony Takes Place in Sistine Chapel.

A SCENE OF SOLEMNITY

The Usual Number of Foreigners Present Was Greatly Diminished on Account of the War.

Rome, Sept. 7.—Pope Benedict XV was crowned yesterday in the Sistine Chapel of the Vatican. The scene was one of the utmost solemnity, but the usual number of foreigners present was greatly diminished on account of the war.

The pontificate of the newly elected sovereign officially dates from Sunday, although he is really pope from the hour of his election.

When he entered the Sistine Chapel the pope was attended by Noble Guards in new red uniforms, carrying swords in their hands.

Except for the supreme pontiff and the cardinals the most interesting figure in the procession was the chaplain. It was he who bore the triple crown.

Extends Benediction to U. S.

Washington, Sept. 7.—Monsignor Bonzano, the apostolic delegate, has received a cable from Rome, in which Pope Benedict XV. extended the apostolic benediction to the delegation, the clergy and the laity of the United States. The dispatch was in reply to a message sent to the Vatican by Monsignor Bonzano, which said:

"I pray your holiness to accept the respectful congratulation and homage of filial obedience and reverence, with the wish of a long and happy pontificate, in the name of the delegation of the clergy and the faithful of the United States, who implore your apostolic benediction."

The cable reply is signed by Cardinal Ferrata, the newly selected papal secretary of state, and says:

"The Holy Father, Benedict XV, welcomes the homage and expressions of filial piety sent by your excellency in the name of the delegation, the clergy and the faithful of the United States. He heartily thanks and blesses them, and in particular your excellency."

PLANNING WAR TAX

$75,000,000 From Beer, Soft Drinks Wine and Medicines.

Washington, Sept. 7.—Democratic members of the ways and means committee virtually agreed upon commodity taxes susceptible to special taxation to realize $75,000,000 of the $100,000,000 requested by President Wilson to offset the loss in customs receipts caused by the conflict in Europe.

What shall be taxed to raise the other $25,000,000 has not been decided. It is certain that beer and fermented liquors will come first among articles taxed. The additional beer tax will be either 50 or 60 cents a barrel, probably 50 cents, producing $32,000,000 a year. A tax of 20 cents a gallon is probable on domestic wines, bringing in from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

From a tax on proprietary medicines and preparations of all kinds and on soft drinks it is hoped to raise approximately $20,000,000, while a small additional revenue tax on distilled liquors, probably not more than 15 cents a gallon, would bring the total tax on whiskies, etc., to $125 a gallon. From these sources, it is estimated, $75,000,000 would be secured.

So severe was the opposition to a tax on railroad tickets among the committee members, chiefly because of its unpopularity and probable political effect, that further consideration is unlikely.

BLOWN UP: THEN DROWNED

High School Student Lights a Match Near Gasoline.

Shippensburg, Pa., Sept. 7.—Lighting a match near a fifteen-gallon can of gasoline near town, eighteen-year-old Charles Zellers, a high school student was hurled, badly burned, 100 feet distant and drowned in a cesspool.

Robert Johnson, who lives nearby, hurried to the Zellers place with a ladder and rope, and with the assistance of neighbors, attracted by the explosion, took the youth's body from the cesspool.

Belgian City Burned.

London, Sept. 7.—The Belgian city of Termonde has been partially destroyed by fire, according to an Exchange Telegraph message from Antwerp. Before the Germans evacuated the city they dynamited the Scheldt bridge in the north and applied the torch to the city. Termonde is twenty miles southwest of Antwerp.

Sea Planes Drop Bombs.

Tokio, Sept. 7.—The Japanese naval commander reports that two sea planes reconnoitered Tsing-Tao, in the German territory of Kiaochow and dropped bombs on the wireless barracks. One of the sea planes received fifteen shots in its planes, but both returned safely.

WILSON RENOUNCES SPEAKING TOUR

Duty to Nation Prevents It, President Says.

Washington, Sept. 7.—"What it (the nation) chiefly expects and demands, and what it will certainly be most surely won by, is the performance of duty without fear or favor and without regard to personal consequences."

Such is the advice given by President Wilson to members of congress in a letter to Representative Frank E. Doremus, chairman of the Democratic congressional committee, who had requested him to go on the stump in the campaign for the re-election of a Democratic congress.

President Wilson made it clear that he will remain at his post in Washington during the present international crisis. He is willing, he tells Representative Doremus, for the administration to stand on its record of achievements.

The future legislative program of the administration, the president says, is "the building up of our merchant marine with all that means in the development and diversification of our foreign commerce and the systematic conservation and economic use of our national resources."

Despite his determination to make no speeches, Mr. Wilson will "take occasion as opportunity offers to state and perhaps relate to the country in the clearest and most convincing terms I can command, the things that the Democratic party has attempted to do."

The president had been asked to speak in Iowa, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Maine and other states.

WOMAN ATTACKED: MAN SHOT

Farm Hand Accused of Beating Rival and Dragging Widow into Woods.

Lewistown, Pa., Sept. 7.—Returning home, Charles Rambo, of Danville, a farmhand, found Chester Heimbaugh courting Mrs. Mary Cappel Stahl, a grass widow employed on the Abraham Grove farm, and to whom Rambo had been very attentive.

Rambo, in a fit of jealous rage is alleged to have beat Heimbaugh unconscious and then, choking Mrs. Stahl until she was unconscious, dragged her into the woods near the house.

In the meantime Grove, who had been aroused by the commotion, seized a shotgun and ran down the stairs where he found Heimbaugh still unconscious. After arousing him and getting an account of the affair, Grove and Heimbaugh scoured the woods and finally found Rambo and Mrs. Stahl through the cries for help by the woman.

Rambo was shot through the right arm, more than 150 shots taking effect. Rambo escaped, but was later captured by the sheriff in Milton in a physician's office. Rambo is in the Union county prison in Lewistown and probably will lose his arm.

Tsing-Tao Isolated.

Paris, Sept. 7.—A dispatch to the Havas agency from Petrograd says that the Germans in Tsing-Tao, sea port and capital of Kiaochow, are entirely isolated, according to dispatches from Tokio. The situation of the Germans is described as precarious.

HUMAN INTEREST SIDE LIGHTS ON GREAT EUROPEAN WAR

Best Stories From Scene of Action Run Gamut of the Emotions.

Stirring Deeds of Valor and Remarkable Incidents, Odd and Tragic.

THE stories collected from wounded arriving in London are endless. While these probably are of little value from a military point of view, many of them are picturesque and illuminative.

Practically all of the wounded seem to agree that the Germans face fire with splendid courage, but that they cannot stand up under bayonet or cavalry charges.

"The Germans are not lacking in pluck except when they have to face cavalry or bayonets," said an infantryman. "They don't seem in the least bit to mind being shot. The awful gaps caused by our carefully directed fire are immediately filled. They rush straight ahead and face a regular hail of lead, but the sight of cold steel seems to unnerve them."

A Strange War Picture.

Another man got mixed with a French regiment on the right. In returning to his own regiment, he says, he crossed a field and passed up a big avenue of trees. Halfway up the avenue was a German officer of lancers lying dead at the side of the road.

"How he got there was a mystery," the soldier continues. "We had seen no cavalry, but there he lay. Some one had crossed his hands over his breast and had put a little celluloid crucifix in them. Over his face lay a beautiful little handkerchief—a lady's handkerchief with lace edging. The handkerchief, too, was a bit of a mystery, for there wasn't a woman within miles of the place."

Seven Charge Twenty-five.

Details of the feat which brought the first cross of the Legion of Honor—the decoration which every French wife or sweetheart hopes her soldier will earn—have been received. The hero was Lieutenant Bruyant, a young dragon officer.

The lieutenant and six men were scouting near the frontier. Suddenly a good way off they saw a patrol of twenty-seven uhlanes, the German light cavalry.

The Frenchmen were impatient to be after them in spite of the disparity in numbers, but Bruyant was too capable a leader to rush in blindly. With good shooting the Frenchman managed to bring down two Germans, and then the uhlanes cantered away. They were almost four to one, but for some reason did not wish to fight. Probably they were simply seeking information.

The French followed up resolutely. The Germans kept their distance. When the dragoons trotted the uhlanes trotted, too. Now the former would gallop across a bit of open country. The Germans would gallop away just as quickly. Evidently they were making for shelter.

Soon Bruyant saw that they were trying to reach a wood, where they could take cover. Now was the moment to unchain his men. He gave orders to draw swords and charge. The seven spurred their horses and fell upon the twenty-five with shouts of defiance.

One German was killed by a lance thrust. The officer in command was drawing his revolver when Bruyant cut him down with his saber. Six more were wounded and knocked off their horses. The rest fled in disorder.

"A Uhlan Killer."

As an evidence of the indomitable spirit which is actuating the Belgians in their war against the Germans, here is a letter from a daring young man with a young wife and child who formerly was notorious as a poacher on game preserves. It was written in the siege of Namur while he was resting a moment.

"A few weeks ago," the letter says, "I was in France working in the beet fields. But because the proud Prussians attacked our country I had to leave and could not bring home a few gold coins for my family. I am feeling as well as possible, am whole and sound and hope, with God's help, to see my home once more."

"The Prussians are poor shots. They don't know by a yard where they shoot, and when they see a bayonet they are so scared they just run. I have lost but very few bullets. When I aim for their noses you can bet that they don't hear the bullets whiz by their ears. They get it right in the mouth. I never missed a bird on the wing, so how could I miss the uhlanes? I settled for more than fifty of them, and if God lets me live I'll cool off a few more. When they come we'll kill 'em like rats, meanwhile singing 'The Lion of Flanders.'"

"Now I finish my letter to grab my gun and shoot uhlanes."

Private, Shot, Killed Prince.

A Central News dispatch from Amsterdam says the shot which ultimately resulted in the death of General von Buelow, one of the German leaders, was fired by a Belgian private named Rousseau, who has since been decorated by King Albert for his conduct in the battle of Haen.

Rousseau was lying badly wounded among a group of dead comrades when he saw a German officer standing beside his horse studying a map. Picking up a rifle from the side of a dead eleven spies, all of whom have been shot. Near Malines he killed one uhlan and captured another, although he was suffering from a broken arm. Terpen declares that the only weapon he used against the German soldiers was a long knife.

King Near Death.

The London Mail's Abbeyville correspondent says: "King Albert came within an ace of death during a sortie on Malines. He was directing operations from his motorcar when shrapnel burst ten yards away, blowing off the rear wheels of the car."

Oddities In the News.

A street hawk in London is offering for sale "any flag on earth bar one." He displays a stand of national colors from which the German has been removed.

German music is barred at the fashionable "prom" concerts in London. Strauss was replaced by Tschalkowsky for a recent program, and Franco-Russian selections are to be substituted for Wagner at the next performance.

The seventeen-year-old daughter of a Russian senator has gone to the front to fight for her country. Only two men are now serving as tramway conductors in Berlin. Advice here say old men and women are doing service as drivers.

Shoot at Germans' Buttons.

"The blue-gray uniforms of the Germans are hard to see at a distance," said a Yorkshire light infantryman, "and for concealing movements are more effective than our khaki, but it is surprising how quickly you learn to pick out such things as buttons, badges, armlets and even peaks of caps or spikes of helmets in the sun and tell by them of the moving men you cannot see otherwise."

"Aim at a button a mile off and you hit a German in the stomach, is what we say, and it's near enough to the truth. The Germans are such sticklers for rules that I have seen their artillery keep firing away at a position of ours after it had been occupied by their own men, and at the hospitals they find quite a number of Germans hit by their own rifle fire."

Fight In the Air.

A fight in the air over Paris is thus described:

Three German aeroplanes hovered over the capital, and immediately two French machines were sent up to engage them. Meanwhile machine guns mounted on public buildings and rifles kept up a constant fire. By this means one of the German machines became separated from the others, and the French aviators flew swiftly in its direction. The German opened fire, to which the Frenchmen replied vigorously.

The engagement seemed to turn to the disadvantage of the German, who mounted speedily to a higher level and, holding this position, was saved from further attack. He finally disappeared in a northwest direction over Fort Romainville after a vain pursuit.

The other German aeroplanes also escaped the fire of the guns and after circling about for a considerable time disappeared from view.

Sentimental Side of War.

War has brought with it a revival of the craze for tattooing in London. Soldiers going to the front, especially territorials, want to have their skins marked before leaving, and the professional tattooers are doing a rushing business.

"They come with their pals, like a man going to have a tooth pulled," said a Tottenham Court road tattooer in telling of the rush. "Many bring their own designs, such as a heart with the name of a girl underneath or two hearts with hands clasped across and the name of the girl. Other designs are of forget-me-nots, with the name of the girl, the year, etc."

"One soldier appeared with the top of his head shaved and had a picture of King George tattooed on the bald spot."

A report to London says that the animals in the Berlin zoos are being killed so that the food they would eat may be saved for the people. Hagenbeck's famous zoo in Hamburg will be preserved, if possible, by killing the less valuable animals and serving their flesh to the others.

Battle Rivalled Waterloo.

The London Chronicle's correspondent from an unnamed point in France gives a description obtained from officers of the great battle near Mons Aug. 26. It says:

"An officer told me it was a terrible day. The German forces assailed the British position not only with determination, but with what I can only justly call ferocity."

"No doubt the German general staff were of the opinion that the British force could not stand before an attack by an enemy twice as strong in numbers and more so in artillery. It was really the first occasion in history on which a battle had taken place between a German and a British army, and I think when we can read its story as we can that of Waterloo it will be found that the battle, in which twice as many men were engaged as at Waterloo, deserves a far higher place, purely as a military achievement."

"It was something really awe inspiring, another officer said in speaking of the same day, to see those terrific German rushes. The attacking forces were well served, too, by artillery, and that has not always been the case."

"When you saw the rush start you thought nothing on earth could stop it. That those tremendous charges were stopped and the attackers driven back in disorder is due in the first place, I am certain, to the magnificent marksmanship of the British soldier."

Even if she had to have a trained nurse for her own children a woman always knows just what to do for her daughter's little ones.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

WHAT TO HAVE FOR SUPPER.

SUPPER MENU.
Parker House Rolls.
Creamed Cauliflower With Ham.
Orange Charlotte.
Iced Tea.

WHEN appetites are capricious a dainty supper like this will tempt even the fastidious.

Delicious Rolls.

Parker House Rolls.—Take three quarts of flour, one quart of milk, one tablespoonful each of butter and sugar, one teaspoonful of salt and one-half yeast cake dissolved in one-half cupful of water; scald the milk, add the butter and one cupful of the flour to it while hot. Let it cool; then mix all together with a knife. Let it rise three hours, cut it down, let it rise one hour; then make rolls. Let rise half hour in pans and bake in hot oven.

Creamed Cauliflower With Ham.—Take one head cauliflower, three well beaten eggs, two cupfuls white sauce, three-fourths cupful finely chopped cooked ham. Trim the cauliflower and boil in boiling salted water until it is tender; then drain and rub it through a sieve. Add the eggs and one cupful of the white sauce to the cauliflower and pour the mixture into a buttered mold. Bake until firm. Turn out on a hot flat dish, cover with sauce and sprinkle with ham.

A Dainty Dessert.

Orange Charlotte.—Take one third box of gelatin, one-third of a cupful of cold water, one-third of a cupful of boiling water, one cupful of sugar, juice of one lemon, one cupful of orange juice and pulp, whites of three eggs. Line a bowl with lady fingers or sections of orange, as preferred. Soak the gelatin in cold water until soft. Pour on the boiling water, add the sugar and the lemon juice. Strain the orange juice and pulp and add with a little of the grated rind. Set in a pan of extremely cold water. When it begins to harden beat it until light. Add the beaten whites and beat together until the mixture is stiff enough to drop. Pour into the mold. Iced Tea.—One of the most refreshing beverages is iced tea. Prepare a tea as usual. When cool place in clean bottles—milk bottles are good for that purpose—cover and place on ice until very cold. Serve in tall glasses partly filled with crushed ice.

NOTHING IS SUDDEN.

Events Seem So Only Because We Do Not Foresee Them.

The mind is often said to be illuminated by a sudden idea or the will to come to a sudden resolution. The suddenness is not only apparent to the onlooker; it is felt by the subject himself, when light seems to flash into his mind or his will to determine itself on an instant. He may talk of inspiration, meaning the unrelated act of some power outside himself. Just so we talk of the suddenness of lightning, the suddenness of an earthquake. We imagine earthquakes and lightning flashes as unrelated, independent happenings, and forget that every earthquake and every flash of lightning is the manifestation of an immutable and slowly working law and could, had men but knowledge enough, have been foretold from the ages.

Things are sudden only because we do not foresee them, and their suddenness is no inherent quality in themselves; it is lent them by our ignorance. The striking of a match may be as sudden as a flash of lightning and the fall of a pin as sudden as a pistol shot, but in normal conditions they do not make us "jump," because the conditions are the state of our nerves and the relative force of the impact upon our senses. A camel falls suddenly under the last straw, but it is the previous slow piling of all the other straws that is the cause of his broken back. Nothing is, in reality, more sudden than anything else; it is from ourselves, from our lack of comprehension and preparation, that the lightning, the earthquake and the pistol shot borrow their suddenness.—London Times.

Killed by a Shark.

New Orleans, Sept. 7.—Peter Kontopoulos, a seventeen-year-old Turk, lost his life in a twenty-minute battle with a shark in Lake Pontchartrain, while a crowd that had been watching his fancy swimming feats lined the shore helpless. The shark darted off when rescuers reached the place in a boat but the young man died before reaching shore.

Record Wheat Exports.

Galveston, Tex., Sept. 7.—Four British vessels sailed for Europe, carrying 895,000 bushels of wheat. This is said to have been the largest quantity of grain shipped in one day from Galveston. The destinations were Bordeaux, Falmouth, St. Azar and Queenstown.

NEW TWO-PIECE SKIRT.

cular flounce with or without a two-piece circular ruffle.

There is to be no scarcity of skirt models among the early autumn modes, for each week brings out something new. Reminiscent of the styles of many years ago is this new French model cut in two pieces and having the inevitable high waist-line. It is lengthened by a one-piece circular flounce, which, in turn, may be finished with a two-piece circular ruffle. The model loses nothing of its smartness, however, if the ruffle is omitted. Serge, cloth, duvetyne, silk and wool ratine or novelty suitings may be used to make the skirt, which closes at one side. The average size requires two yards of 54-inch material.

A wide material is necessary if the pattern is to be laid out to advantage. Among the lengthwise fold is arranged the flounce (C) and front gore (A), both of which are marked by triple "TTT" perforations. The ruffle, piecing for flounce and back are arranged on a lengthwise thread of the material. If the skirt is desired shorter than regulation length the lower edge of the flounce may be cut off along small "o" perforations.

Now join the gores, matching each notch and leaving the left side seam free above the large "O" perforation in front gore for placket.

The large "O" perforation on the ruffle indicates the front. Close back seams of flounces and ruffle; adjust ruffle on flounce, notches and seams even, sew to lower edges of gores, notches and centers even.

There are splendid opportunities for piping the ruffles, but instead of satin or silk fine cords are used to give a piped effect to the newest skirts. Plain, gathered, circular, box-pleated, side-pleated, open in front, buttoning in front—every day brings something newer and prettier in skirts. By many of the best known couturiers it is believed that very soon the underskirt will be dropped altogether and the flaring tunic will be lengthened a few inches, and voila! the full skirt!

Now that the low waist-line is coming into favor, the girlish and the sash are assuming great importance. Pre-makes a softly folded sash of taffeta tied in a voluminous bow at the back as a finish for many of his dresses.

for All We Have and Are

I.
For all we have and are,
For all our children's fate,
Stand up and meet the war!
The Hun is at the gate.
Our world has passed away,
In wantonness o'erthrown.
There's nothing left today
But steel and fire and stone.
Though all we knew depart,
The old commandments stand:
"In courage keep your heart!
In strength lift up your hand!"

II.
Once more we hear the word
That steeled earth of old:
"No law except the sword, Unsheathed and uncontrolled!"
Once more it knits mankind;
Once more the nations go
To meet and break and bind
A crazed and driven foe.

III.
Comfort, content, delight—
The ages' slow bought gain—
They shriveled in a night.
Only ourselves remain
To face the naked days
In silent fortitude,
Through perils and dismays
Renewed and re-renewed.
Though all we made depart,
The old commandments stand:
"In patience keep your heart!
In strength lift up your hand!"

IV.
No easy hopes or lies
Shall bring us to our goal,
But iron sacrifice
Of body, will and soul.
There's but one task for all—
For each one life to give
Who stands if freedom fail?
Who dies if England live?

TRICK LURES SOLDIERS ON.

Boer Subterfuge Helps the British in Clash With the Germans.

Wounded men in the hospitals of Boulogne relate these incidents of fighting between the British and Germans. One of the men told of a trick which the British learned in the Boer war:

"The enemy before sending their infantry against our positions opened a hot artillery fire. Our artillery replied at first warily, and then gun after gun of the British batteries went silent."

"What's up now? I asked a comrade. There were a few minutes more of artillery firing from the Germans, and then their infantry came on in solid formation. We received them with rifle fire. Still they came on, and still we mowed them down. They were getting closer, and we could plainly see the dense masses moving. Then suddenly the whole of our artillery opened fire."

"You see, the cannon had not been silenced at all, and it was a trick to draw the Germans on. They went down in open fields, for our guns got them in open ground, and, of course, they soon had enough. It was impossible for those behind to come on past the dead."

APPALLING DESTRUCTION.

Graphic Portrayal of Ruin Wrought at Liege and Vise.

A Reuter's dispatch from Ostend says a small party just returned from a visit to Liege describes the destruction wrought by the war as appalling.

"All along the road to Vise," said one of the party, "there was nothing to be seen but walls blackened by smoke, the remains of factories burned by fire, mounds of earth freshly dug—the sepulcher of the first Germans to fall."

"And then comes Vise. What a painful sight for those who knew the proud city, so typical of Walloon gaiety, and now nothing but a mass of ruins, while many of the inhabitants lie all over the place, their chests riddled with bullets!"

"At last we entered Liege. The inhabitants stood at the thresholds of their homes, silent and anxious, but afraid to speak. The streets in the middle of the town wore a deplorable aspect. Many houses had been abandoned. Their doors and windows were shattered and their contents had been removed. Nobody but soldiers was to be seen."

GERMAN WAR AUTOS MARVELS.

Carry Scythes to Mow Down Fences and Hedges.

Stories were printed recently about the Germans having armored motorcars armed with machine guns, which tore through the lines of the French and Belgians and mowed down all before them.

Another story of the use of new war inventions is told by Arno Dosch, a correspondent of World's Work, who arrived in London from Brussels. He says the Germans are using auto trucks which are marvels. Equipped with scythes, they mow right through wire fences and hedges if the roads and fields do not suit the drivers.

These trucks are said to be heavily armored, and they are able to resist anything except artillery fire. They enable the German forces to make forty miles a day. Their number seems to be unlimited.

Poetic Shot at the Enemy.

A British shell sent screaming after a German warship in the North sea carried a verse written on it. It was inscribed after an exchange of courtesies between the British and German fleets shortly before the war. It goes: You gave us 'bacca, and you gave us beer; You made us happy while we were here. And in return we'll send you this And hope to God it doesn't miss.

RUSSIA INVADED BY ARMORED TRAIN

Czar's Artillery Repulses Attack on Border Town.

AUSTRIA BEGS KAISER'S AID

Invaders Marching Southward and Will Send Army of 800,000 Into Germany.

London, Sept. 7.—Equipped with rapid-firing guns, a German armored train penetrated the Russian province of Kalisz and bombarded St. Lockavak, a border town.

The attempt was futile, however, as the Russians rapidly appeared upon the scene and with field artillery badly damaged the armored train and drove it back.

The attack on St. Lockavak indicates that the Kaiser is sending a force southward through the Vistula valley against Warsaw.

St. Lockavak is ninety miles from Warsaw.

It is believed that the Germans have pushed back the Russian forces that were previously reported to be in the region of Thorn, Prussia.

That Austria feels that she is unable to stem the tide of Russian invasion is shown by captured documents in which the dual monarch has repeatedly appealed to German for aid.

Further Russian successes are reported from the front in Galicia, and Petrograd (St. Petersburg) announces that the city of Lemberg will hereafter be known as Lvov.

A dispatch from Petrograd in a roundabout manner said that the main Russian force is now ready to move against Germany. Russia will have the use of twenty army corps, or 800,000 men, for this campaign.

Another dispatch says that a German aviator was captured near Zwole, in the Russian province of Radom, 130 miles from the German frontier, while scouting. His machine was fired upon and brought to earth.

The Russians are reported to have captured 5000 Austrian prisoners near Lublin (probably Lublin), where the Tenth corps tried to break the Russian lines.

It is reported from Rome that the Russians are advancing southward, after having occupied Czechnowitz without resistance. It is said that the inhabitants of Bukovina, in which district Czechnowitz is situated, have joined the Russians. This is regarded as the first sign of dissolution of the Austro-Hungarian empire.

Official reports from Petrograd announce that on Thursday and Friday there was no fighting to the south of Lublin and Kholm. That the Austrian main army has already suffered severely is shown by the arrival at Minsk during the last two days of more than 7000 prisoners. The present operations of the Russian army in eastern Galicia, subsequent to the capture of Lemberg, are under strict secrecy.

BIG LINER IS MISSING

Holland-American Steamship Overdue. May Have Been Detained.

Rotterdam, Sept. 7.—Considerable anxiety is felt here concerning the fate of the Holland-American liner Nieuw Amsterdam, now due here, but of which nothing has been learned.

The impression prevails that the steamship has been held up in some French port for the inspection of passengers and cargo.

A dispatch from Paris said that the Nieuw Amsterdam had been detained at Brest, 400 Germans and 250 Austrians having been found aboard the liner.

AFTER GERMAN STEEL TRADE

Fund of $1,000,000 Pledged For Great Trade Campaign.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 7.—The markets for the fine steel products, instruments, tools and the like, formerly held by Germany in all parts of the world, will be sought by Pittsburgh.

The new emergency trade commission's aim is to make "made in Pittsburgh" supersede the familiar "made in Germany." By subscriptions and a contribution by the city government $1,000,000 has been placed at the disposal of the commission for its campaign.

Russian Ladies to Fight

London, Sept. 7.—The Petrograd correspondent of the Times telegraphs a story to the effect that two daughters of General Tolmillovsky, one of the Russian commanders, have volunteered for the war. In compliance with their persistent request they have been permitted to dress themselves in soldiers' uniforms and they will be sent to advance positions.

62,000 Germans Known Dead

London, Sept. 7.—An Antwerp dispatch says: "A sack containing 62,000 aluminum identification plates of Germans who have been killed has been conveyed to Brussels from France. They are destined for Berlin."

HUNGARIANS HERE PLAN REVOLUTION

Raise Funds to Throw Off Austrian Yoke.

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 7.—Hungarians at a meeting held here pledged themselves to support a revolution to free Hungary from the Austrian yoke.

More than $100,000 was subscribed, and several thousand Hungarians have agreed to join a revolutionary movement of the army.

Advices received from Prague, the capital of Bohemia, which is said to be the headquarters of the movement, declare that the revolution is to be hurried against the Austro-Hungarian monarchy within a month.

The movement is being headed in Bridgeport by J. L. Holcovitz, a Socialist Democrat, who was forced to flee the old country several years ago.

Chicago he declared to be the American headquarters, and it was in the city of Bridgeport that the revolutionary plot was hatched.

SYSTEM IN FARMING.

One fact we seek to impress on all is that system and intelligent management are quite as necessary in successful farming as in any other occupation, says Professor, W. J. Spillman of the department of agriculture. There is an utter lack of system in the management of farm enterprises on many farms. Too little attention has been given to standardizing systems of management of enterprises for different localities. Herein is an explanation of the low average returns from the farming industry. The great success that invariably has followed the application of intelligent system to farm management demonstrates the truth of this statement.

The small farm quite as much as the large farm—in fact, more so—requires systematic farm management. The large farm often is easier and cheaper to manage than the small farm, since to get profit such intensive methods as a small farm requires are not needed.

STORING CELERY.

Advantages of Field Pitting and Celar Care.

From bulletin of Montana experiment station.

Celery may be either pitted in the field or stored in a cool, well ventilated cellar. As a rule, however, cellars under the dwelling are too warm and not well enough ventilated to keep celery long. In pitting in the field a trench is dug twelve inches deep and eighteen inches wide, and the plants are set upright in this, with a little dirt worked in about the roots. The plants may be set as close as convenient without crowding. If the ground is dry the trench should be filled with water and this allowed to seep away before the plants are set in.

If to be left in the trench only a short time a light covering of straw will be all the protection needed. If to be stored until severe freezing weather comes it will be necessary to build a framework over the trench to keep the weight of the covering off the plants and pile upon this, as needed, straw and earth to keep the plants from severe freezing. Ventilators should be provided at intervals in the covering.

In a good cool cellar, with a dirt floor and good ventilation, Golden Self Blanching or Giant Pascal may be stored until after the holidays without any trouble. The plants are placed in the cellar about as if pitted in the field, not too crowded, and with a little dirt worked in about the roots.

Alleyways should be left every eighteen inches to allow for watering and to give good ventilation. The cellar should be ventilated in the cool of the day and closed during the warm hours. The temperature should be kept as near 32 degrees as possible. In watering celery in cellar storage run the water on the surface of the soil in the alleys and never wet the leaves.

Fruit Picking Bag.

For reaching inaccessible parts of fruit trees the half bushel basket is not as convenient as the bag. But the bag is an awkward thing to manage without some such device as the one illustrated herewith. It consists of a stout wire not smaller than No. 9 to hold the mouth open, as shown. From each end of this wire a stout cord is hemmed in the mouth of the bag up to the ring, into which when the bag is in use a snap hook attached to a strap is caught. The strap is firmly sewed to the bottom corner of the bag, which is slung over the shoulder and carried under the arm. By proper manipulation the fruit need not be bruised as in ordinary bag gathering methods.

IN THE SPORTING WORLD

Carl Weisman, leading pitcher of the St. Louis Browns aggregation, is a southpaw and stands six feet five and a half inches in his stocking feet.

He is a good pitcher. He is the most improved pitcher in the American league. Ranking forty-second among the American league pitchers last season in the matter of earned runs—American league teams averaged 3.41 earned runs per game as he worked—this season so far Weisman has held the opposition to an average well under two runs per game.

Other facts about Mr. Weisman might be summarized in this fashion: He pitches fewer curved balls than most pitchers; he is one inch taller than Bill James; he is one-half inch shorter than Myles Main of Detroit; he has an undying ambition to be a 300 hitter and may be found any time in practice working with the bat, and he has, with Roy Mitchell, the most perfect control of any pitcher among the Browns.

Rattled the Umpire.

Players throughout the American league live under the impression that Harry Coveleskie, the Tigers' southpaw, can be rattled by the persistent whistling, singing or playing of "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

At different times this season opposing teams have tried to make the big Pole slip by following up this practice. They have yet to succeed, but ball players are persistent individuals.

New York's Highlanders started the tune when Coveleskie was pitching a game at Detroit.

All through the first inning they whistled and sang and stamped their feet in accompaniment. A double play pulled Coveleskie out of a hole in the first period and in the second the Highlanders renewed their efforts.

Through the second inning and into the third they went.

Coveleskie, intent on pitching, paid no heed.

But behind the bat there was one person who possessed nerves that were not attuned to such music. This was Billy Evans. The league's best umpire finally howled: "Cut that out, you fellows. What d'ye think this is—a county fair?"

Golf Courses Costly.

There are not many persons outside of those on the inside of the game of golf who fully appreciate what amount of money it requires to establish a golf course along thoroughly up to date lines, nor to what extent a man will delve into his personal fortune for the sake of gratifying his heart's desire in the building of links which will rank among the best in the section. Not long ago 150 Philadelphia golfers were asked to subscribe $1,000 each that a new course could be built in the Chestnut Hill section. When the National Golf Links of America was first projected at Shinnecock Hill, N. Y., there were $1,000 subscriptions obtained in sufficient number to bring about the completion of a course now ranked as the greatest in the world. Nearly $1,000,000 in all has been spent.

Bargains

We love to give bargains as much as you love to get them. It's a part of our duty to you to sell goods as low as we can and to quote special prices whenever possible.

But it is our greater duty to you to see to it that neither we nor you shall be tempted by a low price to buy anything that isn't worth having.

The true measure of a bargain is quality—not price. It's what you get—not what you pay, that counts.

Bargains here are genuine, true, sound, perfect plums that occasionally drop from the trees of trade.

They are always goods that are truly worth more at the time you buy—not merely goods that at one time may have been worth more, and they are never goods that were made expressly to sell cheap. For such goods are never bargains at all.

You'll find in our ready-to-wear department Wooltex and other makes of coats and suits so reasonably priced that they represent real bargains any time you purchase them. See them early.

A BOY'S BIG GAME

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1914, by Associated Literary Press.

I had the ill luck to get a thorn in my foot while hunting in the lion district of the Transvaal and was laid up at the house of a burgher named Kloopenfeldt for a full week. The burgher had but one child, and he was a boy fourteen years old and named Carl.

I thought myself something of a hunter for big game, but I soon discovered that the boy, young as he was, knew a thing or two in that line.

I am going to tell you what he did on two occasions. The farmer had 100 head of cattle, which were turned out during the day on the rich grass and at night were herded in a strong pen. These cattle were exposed to one enemy by day and another by night. If a wandering rhinoceros came near the herd by day he would select an animal and charge him. Once in awhile one would be overtaken and killed, but in most circumstances, being more agile than the rhinoceros, the cattle made good their escape. The boy, Carl, had watched these performances for some time, and on the second day of my arrival he was to put a plan into execution. There was a big white ox among the cattle who had been chased several times, and he always ran for the pen when charged. He did not run in a straight line, but zigzagged, while the rhinoceros in pursuit never deviated from a straight course. At a particular spot the boy dug a pit. It was long and wide and deep, and it took him a week to complete it. Half a mile to the east of this pit was a thicket from which the rhinoceros had always charged. Just after noon on the second day the boy caught the white ox, and, tying a rope around his horns for bridle, he mounted him and rode away to the thicket. He was going to "draw" for a rhinoceros.

"If a rhinoceros charges the boy he may be overtaken and killed," I said to the parents.

"I have no fear for Carl," replied the father.

For half an hour he rode the ox along the edge of the thicket, and then a rhinoceros suddenly broke cover with a fierce snort. He was after the ox like a wild locomotive, and for the first two minutes my heart was in my mouth. Then the ox got his speed up and held his own, while the boy kept laughing and shouting. By means of the ropes young Carl held his "steed" straight for the pit, but just before reaching it he swerved to the left and passed it in safety. Not so with the "rhino," however. The big beast ran in a straight line with his head down. Instead of following the swerve of the ox he kept straight on, and in five seconds he had landed at the bottom of the pit.

The old gun was brought out, and the bullets were fired into the rhinoceros until he was dead, and he was then covered in. I tried to pat the boy on the back and magnify his deed, but I couldn't make him believe that he was a hero.

Each night as soon as the sun went down there was a great howling on all sides from hyenas and jackals, and an hour or two later the lions would begin to roar. On the second night of my stay I wounded one by firing from a kitchen window, and on the third I killed one that was prowling within thirty feet of the back door. The Boer was glad enough to have them disposed of, but yet he had an eye to business. A dead lion was worth only his skin, while a live one could be sold for $150 cash to the men supplying zoological gardens and menageries. I was asked not to do any more shooting, and on the afternoon of the fourth day the boy set about preparing a trap. The cattle pen was twelve feet high, constructed of stones, logs and thorn bushes. At one spot it was pulled down until about five feet high. On the inside was constructed a stout pen of stakes, having a length of ten feet and a breadth of five or six. The idea was that if a lion leaped the wall he would land in this pen. It was open at the top, however, and I pointed out to the boy that the lion would be no sooner in than out again.

"But you shall see how I will keep him in," he replied, and it was true that I soon did see and was amazed over it.

He constructed a sort of net of stakes and old telegraph wire, and this net was to be drawn over the top of the pen after the lion was caged. To draw it one must be inside the cattle pen.

Just at nightfall the boy took up his position in the pen among the cattle. An hour or so later we heard five different lions roaring at once. By and by I caught sight of two skulking around, and but for the remonstrances of the Boer I should have fired upon them. He wouldn't hear of it, and we had a big male lion full under our eye when the animal approached the opening and leaped the wall. The frightened cattle bellowed and rushed about in their terror, and it was fully ten minutes before we heard from Carl. Then he came out of the pen by the big gate and calmly informed us that the lion had been safely trapped. I tried again before I left to make the boy understand that he had exhibited the greatest bravery in doing what he did, but he modestly replied:

"But I had to be there to draw the net or the lion would have escaped."

And the father quietly added as he puffed away at his big pipe:

"He had to be, of course. You can't catch lions if you are in bed."
